SAME OLD PLACE

It shouldn't be a revelation, but to some it may be, to learn this is the same country they lived in away back in 1929, 1930, 1931 and 1932. Notice the similarities.

Businessmen still are sensitive to the psychology of fear, even though they've had a lot of practice. Politicians still depend on popular confidence for their precarious existence.

The law of supply and demand hasn't been repealed. Production still is contingent on profit. Prosperity still hinges on the buying power of the masses. High wages still can be gobbled up by high prices.

Fear feeds on fear today, and confidence feeds on confidence. The tendency to blame someone else for everything right is as strong as it ever was.

The sea can't be swept back with a broom, and good times can't be coaxed around the corner by painting "Welcome" on the doormat and waiting for developments. Bandwagons still are crowded when they're rolling downhill and deserted when they're stalled going uphill.

The nether regions still are paved with good intentions and earth still is crowded with mortals who seem determined to go there. Laws still won't save the world if the world doesn't want to be saved, and the judgment of three men is a better bet than the opinion of one.

If, somehow, the fact that this is the same country being shoved hither and yon by the same forces and the same type of individuals—the More Abundant Life to the contrary notwithstanding—can be pounded home, the game will be worth the candle.

JUST AN OHIO BOY

William Stiers, 18, of Alexandria, O., started to take a hand in the work on his dad's farm when he was 13. He has been out of school a year now, runs a dairy herd, manages an orchard and 14 acres of crop land, feeds hogs for market, has saved $1,600 and reinvested $900 of it, and helps around the place generally.

It's not surprising, therefore, that he was chosen over 99 other contestants as the north Atlantic region's "star farmer" at the convention of Future Farmers of America in Kansas City. He's also the organization's president in Ohio and has been president, secretary and treasurer of his local unit. Nor will it be surprising to learn that when the time comes for him to take charge, his father's farm won't go to pot, or drive young Mr. Stiers into town to try to make a living in a factory.

Secretary of Interior Ickes was one of the judges who selected this young farmer in the "star" contest. Maybe the secretary will drop in to see Henry Wallace down in Washington one of these days to tell him about the dandy farm relief he saw out in Kansas City.

NO COMMITMENTS

More than two weeks have passed since the President gave the world unlimited chances to guess what he meant by repudiating the theory of isolation in his speech at Chicago.

After the speech, the state department accepted an invitation to this government to participate in a conference of signatories to the Nine-Power treaty at Brussels. It further announced that this government's "conclusions" were in "general accord with those of the assembly of the League of Nations."

Last Tuesday night, President Roosevelt formally stated that Norman H. Davis, who will speak for the United States at Brussels, would enter the conference "without any commitments on the part of this government to other governments." There the matter stands at present.

The Brussels conference opens Oct. 30. On Nov. 15 a special session of congress will convene. Congressmen will want to know why the chief executive apparently has discarded the neutrality act, which they adopted. They will want to know whether the Chicago outburst was a speech or a program. They will want to know whether Mr. Roosevelt's frown on other governments is supposed to mean something.

Here is one thing the President has started which can't be dropped when he gets tired of it. He's talking for the government, not for himself, or his party or any group within the country.

ON TRIAL

Intent on refuting the charge that something is going on in the state highway department besides road building, Gov. Davey is appointing a little brain trust of university engineers to look into the matter. Six professors, representing Ohio State, Purdue and Case School of Applied Science already have been named, and there may be more.

These gentlemen are on trial, because the governor's gadflies claim he is counting on them to get nowhere in their investigation, which is the only reason he is taking the chance of turning them loose.

Every time politicians fall back on collegians, it seems, the collegians take a beating. This is a crying shame and a burning injustice. Here would be a great opportunity to prove that a man still can be bright and practical even with a degree and a job on the teaching staff. Sic 'em, professors.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—Now and then there cling, like barnacles to a modern liner, stores, restaurants and offices out of a vanished past. On a reach of down-town Prince street is a little grocery that is just as it was when it opened for trade 40 years ago.

On its shelves is a scant array of tinned goods. There is the dill pickle barrel open at the top and the leaning basket of dried apricots. When the front door opens a bell rings in the rear and the stooped and be-whiskered proprietor blinks out of the depths.

At dusk a single coal oil lamp illuminates the place. It is probably more antiquated than any Cross Roads store at Speer's cut. There are two offices in the Wall Street district without telephones and a notion store in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn has package baskets zinging on wires.

New York's most exclusive bank—the First National—recently built a new home, but it retained the roll top desks of long ago with the president's out in the open for all to see. And obeying the unwritten law that his hat must be at all times on top of his desk.

They have persuaded Chic Young, creator of the comic strip featuring the precocious child "Blondie," to carry on. When the artist's child, the prototype of the strip, passed on recently, the anguished parent declared he would never draw again. For many weeks he appeared stunned and could not be aroused from his lethargy. Finally they induced him to sit at his drawing board for awhile daily, and gradually he took up his popular chore again.

Conversion of the famous country home of Billie Burke, Burkley Crest, at Hastings-on-Hudson, into a fine suburban hotel, will remove what at one time was the best known estate, next to John D. Rockefeller's Pocantico Hills, in Westchester. It was a background for some of Florenz Ziegfeld's most elaborate spending spurs. Here at one time he garaged six Rolls Royces, built a dollhouse for his daughter, Patricia, said to have cost $20,000, and had a playground that included among other pets a baby elephant.

I am told that few window cleaners go for more than two years without a half-raising escape from death. Despite the danger of their teeters on high ledges, eventually they grow careless and find themselves dangling to one end of a strap, high in mid-air. If they have successfully passed through the mishap they rarely meet death at their work. Considering the hazards of their calling, the death rate is astonishingly low.

My favorite of all New York theaters is the venerable and stately Empire. In the decor of a vanished past, it has gone down hill with an air. And today seems to attract the most fashionable first night guests. Katharine Cornell usually plays there as do Nazimova and Gielgud and somehow in the musty shadows one feels the presence of Charles Frohman, John Drew and so many more of the theater when it was real theater. This season it displays the talents of Burgess Meredith and Lillian Gish in a play fittingly dated for the Empire—the Gay 90's. Between the foyer and the theater proper there is a carpeted promenade, and from the walls gaze down the autographed likenesses of the theatrical great of yesteryear. Coming into it from the noisy world outside, it distills a feeling of peace, like some country meeting house without hurry or self-consciousness.

From the Locust Valley Notes in a Long Island weekly: "Mrs. H. Pool of Skunk's Misery Road, has gone to her New York City apartment for the winter."

For just the winter? Why not farewell forever?

FROM THE NEWS FILES

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, October 22

According to the lunar transits, this may be a day in which social, domestic, artistic and sentimental matters may engage the attention, although certain minor business transactions may work out profitably. Old interests may prove lucrative, and elders may bring benefits. But the pursuit of pleasure and affectional associations are paramount, with probably heavy expenditures in this connection.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a very happy year, with possibly pleasure and sentimental satisfactions in the limelight. However, some secondary business affairs may be profitable, and old matters should flourish. But expenditures may be rather expensive in the way of personal gratifications.

A child born on this day may have a bright, affable and extremely sociable disposition, achieving great popularity and much enduring happiness in life because of it.

Lake Shipping Season Lags at Finish

Although the 1937 shipping season on the Great Lakes rolled up an impressive showing during the early months, the movement of iron ore and coal on the world's greatest inland waterway has fallen off sharply of late. Ore shipments were expected to total 60,000,000 tons and coal shipments better than 40,000,000 tons but numerous carriers have been laid up in the past month and tonnage for September fell off sharply. Total shipments of iron ore up to Oct. 1 total 54,612,122 gross tons in comparison to 33,762,588 for the same period last year. Coal shipments up until Oct. 1 total 35,314,337 tons, well over last year's record mark of 32,729,190 tons for the same period.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

At this time of the year there is usually a marked increase in the reported number of infantile paralysis cases.

Epidemics of "Polomyelitis," the medical name for infantile paralysis, frequently occur in one or another section of the country. Fortunately, these outbreaks are usually moderate in number and intensity. They do not justify that fear which occurred in the last serious outbreak. But no matter how mild the epidemic, the disease still excites fear and even terror. Every parent in the neighborhood is unhappy.

The campaign against infantile paralysis continues daily. Scientists all over the world are vigorously engaged in research work, attempting to determine the actual cause of this dreaded disease. In this country much work has been carried on in the same field. It is hoped that great benefits will soon be available, not only in the treatment of the disease, but in its prevention.

Dr. Copeland

May Affect Anyone

Although only two per cent of children are likely to have this disease, the percentage varies in different years. What will happen depends on the general health of the nation, as well as certain other factors which have not as yet been determined.

The disease is not necessarily confined to children; it afflicts adults as well. Some persons seem more susceptible to it than others. It all depends on the lack of a natural immunity or protection against disease. Like many other diseases, one attack of infantile paralysis usually gives protection against future attacks. It is well to be on guard against this disease, and it promotes safety to follow the general rules of hygiene and sanitation.

If a child is known to have infantile paralysis, it is imperative that he be kept to himself. No child should be permitted to play with him or enter his sick room. Rigid quarantine should be enforced to guard others from the disease.

Expert Care Needed

As it is difficult to recognize the disease in its early stages, it is always best to consult a doctor as soon as a child or adult shows suspicious signs. Irritability, restlessness, pain and fever are signs that should never be ignored, whether infantile paralysis is about or not.

For the victim of paralysis who has recovered but is disabled, special exercises are now available. Rather complete recovery is expected for the adult victim of this disease. In certain instances surgery may be advised. But this must be determined by the doctor because no two cases are the same.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. W. W. E. Q.—I am greatly troubled with my joints—a quick pain in the ankles when walking, sharp pains and swelling of the joints in the fingers, also my knees pain and are stiff at times. I am 55 years of age. What would you advise in this case?

A—These symptoms are probably due to arthritis. Try to locate the underlying source of infection. Improve your general health and resistance. For further particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Mrs. S. Q.—What do you advise for high blood pressure?

A—Proper diet and regular habits are important. For full particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

E. V. B. Q.—Last summer I had hives and I kept scratching and picking at them until they left scars. Is there anything that will remove these blemishes?

A—See a skin specialist for his opinion and advice.

I. O. H. Q.—What is the "cure" for halitosis? I am 32 years of age and have chronic catarrh and constipation.

A—Overcome the nasal condition and the constipation first of all. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send an addressed, stamped envelope with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland, New York City.

Mothers! Treat Children's Colds This Proved Way

More mothers use VapoRub than any other medication of its kind—they have proved it by use in their own homes. It was further proved in the world's largest colds clinic. No "dosing"—just massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. Almost at once, its poultice-and-vapor action starts to loosen phlegm, relieve irritation and coughing, help break local congestion. Often, by morning, the worst of the cold is over.

HOMEWORTH

A number of Homeworth people attended the funeral service for Mrs. Emma Whinery of Salem at the Stark memorial at Salem Saturday afternoon.

Observe Rally Day

Rally day was largely attended at the Evangelical church in Homeworth Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Dominio, who was injured a few days ago, was taken to the Alliance City hospital Saturday.

W. A. Baker, who was a patient in the Salem City hospital the past three weeks, was brought home Saturday.

Mrs. Helen Maple and son Webb of Glassport, Pa., and Mrs. Vera Maple and son of Alliance called on the former's father, W. A. Baker, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Irwin visited friends in Louisville Sunday. Bobbie Cassidy of Alliance spent Saturday afternoon at the home of D. W. Thomas.

Visit In Salem

Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Thomas and children, Paul and Kathleen, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schopfer of Salem.

Mrs. J. H. Felgar is very ill at her home in Homeworth.

20-Day Sentence

LISBON Oct. 21—Clyde Fickes of Wellsville was sentenced to 20 days in the county jail yesterday afternoon by Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones following a plea of guilty to an indictment charging larceny.

Fickes originally pleaded not guilty to the charge and was remanded to the county jail in default of bail. He was indicted jointly with Charles Cain of Wellsville for the alleged theft of metal belonging to the Pennsylvania railroad.

Cain, who pleaded not guilty at his arraignment, did not alter his plea.

Making the grade

GROWING children with a dash of energy usually the grade... and with ease.

Every thoughtful mother recognizes this fact... mothers know too, children need help to build and gain blood strength.

Particularly is this true with children who have suffered some illness or look pale... tire easily... are overweight or have lost their rest last night.

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build-up children's health through red-blood-cells, thus putting them in better condition to enjoy the food they eat and to regain lost weight, which make for strength and vitality.

Help your child to "make the grade" by starting him or her on a course S.S.S. Tonic now. There is no other rate for this time-tested remedy, no ethical druggist will suggest anything "just as good."

Nine-Power Parley Delegates

United States' delegation to the nine-power parley called for Oct. 30 at Brussels, Belgium, is headed by these three, left to right, Dr. S. K. Hornbeck, of Franklin, Mass., chief adviser to the state department on Far Eastern matters; Norman H. Davis, "roving ambassador", who has been an important American delegate to international conferences, and Charles E. Bohlen of Ipswich, Mass., secretary of the delegation.

SPANISH PLANS NEAR COLLAPSE

Non-Intervention System Believed Doomed To Failure

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Oct. 21.—Complete collapse of the enfeebled neutrality system designed to keep the Spanish war from embroiling the rest of Europe appeared inevitable today. The threatened smashup put general European peace in one of its most perilous positions since the end of the World war.

But paradoxically enough few observers believed war would come, at least not immediately—simply because they believe the powers ranged against one another could not afford it.

New Deadlock Born
A new deadlock was born of the refusal of Italy, Germany and Portugal to agree to withdrawal of foreign warriors from the Spanish conflict before granting of belligerent rights to the warring forces under the banners of the Republic and government of Valencia and the insurgent regime of Salamanca.

Granting of belligerent rights under international law, as a preface to withdrawal of foreign troops, would favor insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

South Russia was openly opposed to the Fascist bloc on this project. Apparently the big Communist state had the backing of Britain and France although they did not commit themselves.

It seemed that Paris and London preferred to try to dodge any responsibility for the smashup.

Slim Chances
The London non-intervention subcommittee was scheduled to meet this afternoon. In what London newspapers agreed was its final session and with a "thousand-fold" chance of success at reaching a basis for restoring Spain's war to Spaniards alone.

The situation was regarded so serious that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden consulted Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain last night and made a full report on the tangled proceedings.

If the already tattered pact between 27 European nations is discarded France and Britain, it was believed, would affect their threat immediately to resume "liberty of action" probably reopening France's Spanish frontier to shipments of arms to the Valencia government.

N. GEORGETOWN

Revival services will continue at the Brethren church here during this week with Rev. C. C. Grisso of Smithville as the evangelist, assisted by the pastor, Rev. A. Byers of Canton.

Mr. and Mrs. V. N. Long of Akron were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Boone.

Members of the Canton-Youngstown Federation of Luther Leagues held a winter roast at the Peter Burger farm last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Yennie of Homeworth visited Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Haskins on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wang and Mrs. Rena Whiteleather were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wild of Canton on Sunday afternoon.

Honoring the birthday anniversary of Edgar Saffell, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Saffell entertained at an oyster dinner last Wednesday evening. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pultz of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Saffell and Oris Saffell.

The children and grandchildren of Mrs. Sarah Greenstein called at her home Wednesday evening honoring her birthday anniversary.

Ask Wage Boost

THEATER Attractions

Shirley Temple's most recent film, "Heidi", is the movie version of the well known Johanna Spyri child novel, by the same name. Jean Hersholt, Helen Westley, Pauline Moore, Thomas Beck, Mary Nash, Sidney Blackmer, Mady Christians and Sig Ruman are featured in the picture, which shows tonight, Friday and Saturday at the State.

Hersholt is cast as the old reclusive grandfather and the story of how Heidi succeeds in winning him back to the world and his friends is one that reaches the deepest corners of his heart.

Wins Him Over
Heidi's grandfather at first refuses even to look at her when she is brought to his lonely mountain cabin by her aunt. Soon, however, the child's courage, friendliness and general appeal softens his heart and before long she induces him to resume his old friendships.

Then the aunt reappears unexpectedly and takes Heidi back to town with her without telling the grandfather. When he learns of her disappearance he walks the hundred miles to the rich man's home where her aunt is employed. Heidi becomes fast friends with the crippled daughter of the house, Klara Sesemann, and gives her the strength and courage to walk once more.

The jealousy of the Sesemann's housekeeper is about to bring disaster to Heidi when the grandfather arrives in time to protect her and climax the beloved story.

Shirley's two dances are elaborate production numbers in a special dream sequence, directed by Sammy Lee, the Twentieth Century-Fox maestro who guided Shirley's dancing in her first two big pictures, "Stand Up and Cheer" and "Baby Take a Bow."

At The Grand
The tale of one man's daring which rid the Old West of its worst gang of cattle-rustlers is told in "Hopalong Rides Again," latest in the series of Clarence E. Mulford Westerns, which shows at the Grand Friday and Saturday. William Boyd is again cast in his familiar role of "Hopalong," heartbroken to find the leader of the rustlers to be the brother of the woman he loves, "Hopalong" fights to bring the criminal to justice, and to remove any suspicion of complicity from the girl. Aided by his two familiar saddlemates, George Hayes, again cast as "Windy," and Russell Hayden, playing "Lucky," "Hopalong" accomplishes his aim and brings peace and happiness to the whole countryside.

The double bill concludes tonight at the Grand. The two features are: "The Women Men Marry" featuring George Murphy and Josephine Hutchinson; and "Bull-Do Drummond Comes Back," with John Howard as the ace detective, Louise Campbell as his fiancée and John Barrymore as chief of detectives.

Golf Star Fights Conviction

Here is LaVerne Moore, alias John Montague, mystery golf wizard of Hollywood, as he appeared in court at Elizabethtown, N. Y., with his attorney, James Noonan, right, during trial on a charge of robbing a New York tavern in 1930.

Attention Voters!

Starting Saturday, Oct. 23, and continuing every day until election, the Democratic party in Salem will, in a series of advertisements, endeavor to acquaint the voters of the city with the personalities of the Democratic candidates for municipal office.

By following this method, we feel that the voters can get a clearer insight on the character of each candidate, their past service to the community and the type of service they will give in their respective offices, if elected.

Conference Planned Here By Juvenile Music Groups

The junior department of the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs will hold its fall conference for the junior and juvenile music groups of the northeast and the middle-east districts on Saturday in the library assembly room.

Sessions will open at 9:30 a. m. Clubs under the supervision of Miss E. Luley of Warren, supervisor of the northeast district, and those under Mrs. L. D. Cessna, in charge of the middle-east district, will be represented.

An extensive program will be given, with a feature by each of the represented clubs. Speakers will be Mrs. R. A. Herbruck of Dayton, president of the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs; Miss Virginia Castoe of Columbus, state supervisor of junior music groups; and

Past Noble Grands Have Program

A delightful program followed a coverdinner at 6:30 last night in Odd Fellows hall for the Past Noble Grands association of Home Rebekah lodge.

Places were arranged at the table for 29 members. Mrs. W. P. Davis gave an interesting paper on "The Art of Book Making and Book Binding." Mrs. B. W. Dixon gave a review of current events and Mrs. O. F. Sanor had charge of several contests which closed the entertainment.

The association will meet again Nov. 17.

Octo Bridge Club Is Entertained

Miss Alice Pluckiger was hostess to members of the Octo Bridge club last evening at her home on North Ellsworth ave.

Two tables of bridge were in play during the evening. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. T. A. Mercer and Mrs. Gory Jones. Lunch was served, attractive with Halloween decorations.

Miss Alice Knutti was a guest of the club.

On Nov. 3 the group will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Cloyd Reynard, East School st.

Ladies of Maccabees Enjoy Social

District Deputy Loretta Yarnall, who was expected to attend a dinner-meeting at Tuskey City five No. 576, Ladies of the Maccabees, in the hall Wednesday evening, was unable to be present.

A social hour was enjoyed by the group after the dinner, which was served at 6:30 p. m.

The next meeting will be Nov. 3 at the hall.

Auxiliary To Aid In Alliance Rites

Ladies auxiliary No. 8, Patriarchs Militant, will go to Alliance Monday evening to present the mustering-in ceremony for Alliance auxiliary No. 15.

Practice for the event will be held in Odd Fellows hall, State st., at 8 p. m. Friday. All members are asked to be present.

Mrs. Minamy Hostess To Cheerful Club

Mrs. James Minamy was hostess to 10 members of the Cheerful club yesterday afternoon at her home in Leetonia. A coverdinner luncheon was enjoyed and an informal social afternoon followed.

The next meeting will be Nov. 3 at the home of Mrs. Paul Balsley, R. D. 4.

CRIMINAL CASES SET FOR TRIAL

Sixteen Are Docketed for Week Beginning Monday

LISBON, Oct. 21.—Sixteen criminal cases have been docketed for the week starting Oct. 25 by James Stevenson, assignment commissioner.

The trial of George Morris, Salem constable, indicted for driving while intoxicated and failing to stop when signaled by an officer, heads the list. Morris will face a jury Monday morning.

Gambling charges against George Rigas and Theodore Ganas of East Liverpool have been assigned for the same day. Both men were secretly indicted on two charges during the grand jury's probe into gambling conditions in the county.

Five Cases Tuesday

Five cases have been assigned for Tuesday. Charles Cain, Wellsville, jointly indicted with Clyde Fickes, also of Wellsville, will be tried for the alleged theft of metal belonging to the Pennsylvania railroad. Fickes entered a plea of guilty to the indictment Tuesday and was sentenced to 20 days in the county jail by Common Pleas Judge W. F. Jones.

Roy King and William Atkinson, accused of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, will follow Cain in the court room. Cases against Fred Marshall, George Johnson, John Taylor, Harold Oliver and Charles Monroe also have been assigned for Tuesday.

Marshal, a Salem resident, is accused of reckless driving. Johnson is charged with non-support. Taylor, Oliver and Monroe—all of East Liverpool will be tried on a joint indictment charging them with operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

Robbery Charges
Elmer and Arthur Duke of East Liverpool face robbery charges Wednesday. An additional indictment charging Elmer Duke with operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent also is assigned for trial on this date. Other Wednesday cases involve Anthony Walent, Fairfield township, driving while intoxicated; George Mori, East Liverpool, malicious destruction of property; and Wayne Wilson, Wellsville, assault and battery. Only seven of the 16 cases assigned are felonies. The balance are misdemeanors. All will be heard by the same petit jury.

91st BIRTHDAY

Allegheny College President Speaks At Mount Union On Anniversary Day

ALLIANCE, Oct. 21.—Mt. Union college quietly marked its 91st birthday anniversary Wednesday.

Before one of the largest chapel audiences in the history of the college, Dr. William B. Tolley, president of Allegheny college, delivered the annual Carr lecture.

Mount was founded by Orville Nelson Hartshorn, Oct. 20, 1846, and was united with Scio college in 1911. The college claims to be the founder of summer term sessions, the intensive study plan, formerly used by Scio, and of intercollegiate basketball.

Hartshorn was an undergraduate at Allegheny when he founded Mt. Union.

Well, Anyway—

BALTIMORE, Md.—John Carter, Negro pedestrian in court to tell about running into an automobile, said the accident happened on James street. Police said it happened on George street. Carter said he had it written down, and looked at the note.

"You know, judge," he said, "it says here that accident happened on John street."

The court decided the automobile driver was not to blame, anyway.

Slimming Down the Fuller Figure

Deceitful Dresses Like These, Which Can
Be Worn by Mother or Daughter,
Present Trim Appearance

By MARIE MAROT

THE woman of fuller figure will find that her sartorial wants have been carefully considered this season, for dresses in sizes 38 or 42 are as trim and neat and youthful as the "slim sixteens". Of course, dresses of this type are usually of dark fabric, since a light material adds inches to the average figure, unless especially skillful in cut and design. Both of the models sketched are in black and both could be worn by mother or daughter. The dress at right is of black satin with crepe. The bolero is edged with satin in a charming design. The skirt has trick pleats to assist in creating a slim line over the abdomen. The other frock, left, with its pert tab-tassels of hand-knotted black fringe, is of black crepe. The sash and V neckline have color in the form of touches of lapis lazuli crepe, and the clip is of simulated lapis and rhinestone.

applicants after Nov. 5.
Compensation of the postmaster here was $932 for the last fiscal year.

LEFT, a black crepe dress which sports pert tab-tassels of hand-knotted black fringe. The sash and V neckline have touches of lapis lazuli crepe.

RIGHT, this dress of black satin and crepe has a bolero that is edged with satin in a charming design. The skirt has trick pleats to help the slim line effect.

JAMES WIDMER PLEADS GUILTY

Erstwhile Fugitive Companion of Bird Brothers Faces Life Imprisonment

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21.—James Widmer, erstwhile fugitive companion of the desperate Bird brothers, pleaded guilty today to three Cleveland bank robberies when arraigned before Federal Judge Paul Jones. He faces life imprisonment.

"There's not a chance of beating the rap," Widmer said after entering the plea.

Widmer, also a convicted slayer, was returned to Cleveland from Philadelphia but not immediately to Cuyahoga county jail from which he escaped Sept. 22 with Charles and Frank Bird.

Widmer was lodged in a cell in the marshal's office in the federal building, and placed in a straight jacket belt which forces the wearer to keep his hands in front of him.

After being questioned by agents of the federal bureau of investigation, Widmer was to be taken back to the jail from which he escaped, federal officials indicated.

Widmer made the trip here by train, handcuffed, and guarded by U. S. Marshal J. G. Reing of Philadelphia and Deputy Marshal Glen Harvey. He was captured in Philadelphia last Thursday.

E. Palestine Couple Married 68 Years

EAST PALESTINE, Oct. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Irwin of Alice st., celebrated their 68th wedding anniversary Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin have spent their entire life in this area having been married at the Mt. Zion M. E. church in Middleton Oct. 17, 1869, by the Rev. A. J. Lane.

Enters Guilty Plea

LISBON, Oct. 21.—William McLean of Wellsville, bound over to the grand jury Oct. 15 on a charge of assault and battery, pleaded guilty before Judge W. F. Jones here today and was sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail.

McLean is alleged to have beaten John Robinson in Wellsville on Oct. 14.

Frown On Games

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21.—Ohio Baptists in convention here yesterday asked police and state officials to curb the use of gaming devices even for "religious, educational and charitable purposes." The convention re-elected Rev. I. N. Deputy of Dayton president.

All's Not Gold, Etc

ANCHORAGE, Alaska.—Grizzled prospectors at Platinum, in the Goodnews bay district, are getting no end of mash letters these days. But A. C. Thane, just back from the boom town, warns women who believe the miners are fabulously rich that all is not platinum that glitters.

Even Pete Wold, a freighter captain, has received several proposals. His wife enjoys them very much, Thane said.

Postmaster's Chair Open at Homeworth

HOMEWORTH, Oct. 21.—United States civil service examination will be held at Alliance, the date to be announced later, for applicants for the position of fourth class postmaster for Homeworth, it was announced here today.

Iowa Bank Closed To Check Shortage

BURLINGTON, Ia., Oct. 21.—The First National bank of Burlington remained closed today for the purpose of checking a $400,000 total which police said Assistant Cashier William C. Kurrie, 52, confessed yesterday he embezzled and lost, for the most part, in stock market operations.

Investigators said their audits indicated that Kurrie for two years had been "a walking bank," giving false deposit slips to customers and meeting their withdrawals from his own pocket.

Kurrie was jailed yesterday by county officers and held in default of $25,000 bail. A federal warrant was issued, charging him with embezzlement, but county authorities said they were not ready to release him to the government yet.

D. A. V. Plans Drive

National Bugler of the G. A. R., Lee Cummings, buys a Forget-Me-Not from red-headed Charles Moore, Jr., son of one of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

Little blue forget-me-nots will be offered for sale here Saturday, under offered for sale here Saturday under of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, as part of a nation-wide campaign to raise funds for local service and emergency relief programs, and for the continued maintenance of a nation-wide rehabilitation service set up.

The sale is symbolic to the members of the D. A. V. of the big battle for justice which they have been waging during these last 16 years for the thousands of their less fortunate comrades, whose war-incurred disabilities (many of them not even yet legally established as such) have handicapped them from becoming self-sustaining citizens, according to J. A. Nicklason, chairman of the local Forget-Me-Not day drive, "and the passage of the so-called Economy bill on March 20, 1933, although now superseded by Public No. 141, still leaves much to be done for these men."

all of them ready to answer calls for assistance without waste of time, as, for instance, the committees organized in states subject to frequent tornadoes and hurricanes.

"It would be impossible," the local chairman said, "to tell by statistics what renewed hope and brightened outlooks on life were made possible by this Red Cross assistance. It is hard to visualize the plight of flood victims last spring had it not been for assistance in rebuilding and re-furnishing homes and re-establishing means of livelihood for victims that the Red Cross gave, in addition to the emergency assistance in the form of food, medical aid, clothing, and shelter provided while the waters were raging."

The year-round maintenance of Red Cross disaster service is made possible by the annual Red Cross roll call, starting Sunday, when citizens will be asked to renew their memberships or to join this great movement for the relief of those in distress.

DEATHS

MRS. HELEN NYKTAS
Mrs. Helen Nyktas, 78, died at 5 a. m. today at her home above the Ohio restaurant, E. State st., following a short illness resulting from a cerebral hemorrhage.

A native of Aively, Greece, she resided in Athens, Greece, before coming to Salem 10 years ago. Her husband, Anthony Nyktas, died in 1915.

She is survived by three sons, John in Greece, William and Chris of Salem, and a daughter, Mrs. Marysina Karpouzi, also of Salem.

Funeral services will include a brief service at the home at 10 a. m. Saturday, followed by final rites at St. John's Greek Orthodox church in Youngstown. Burial will be in Belmont cemetery, Youngstown.

Friends may call at the Nyktas home from 6 to 9 p. m. Friday.

MRS. MARY SMEDLEY
WASHINGTONVILLE, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Mary E. Smedley, 68, of Washingtonville, widow of Herbert Smedley, died in Salem City hospital at 2:45 a. m. today from complications following a long illness.

She was born in Washingtonville July 19, 1869, the daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Wagner. She had been a resident here all her life. She attended Washingtonville school, graduating in the class of 1888. Mrs. Smedley was a member of Trinity English Lutheran church here.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Laura DeLauter and Miss Ruth Smedley of Youngstown; one son, Glenn Smedley, and a brother, Lawrence Wagner, both of Youngstown; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral service will be conducted at Trinity Lutheran church at 2 p. m. Saturday in charge of Rev. G. D. Keister. Burial will be in Oakdale cemetery, Leetonia. Friends may call at the home from 7 to 9 p. m. Friday.

At Tabernacle

Rev. Ralph W. Doan, Cleveland evangelist, will give his personal testimony on how he left the public stages of Cleveland for Christianity and the ministry on Friday night at the Lighthouse Tabernacle, W. State st.

The special services being sponsored by the Tabernacle through this week and the coming Sunday are being received with increasing interest and success.

The musical numbers of the evangelist on the piano and accordion are greatly enjoyed. Before preaching each evening he has been giving black board talks to the children and presenting musical selections and vocal numbers.

Mrs. Oral Budge of Alliance was present last night and gave a beautiful arrangement of the "Old Rugged Cross" while the evangelist drew to illustrate it.

This evening Rev. Doan has announced that his subject will be "The Signs of the Times, or 'Will Christ Return Soon?' A welcome is extended to all to attend this service.

Beware Coughs That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Murder Indictment Looms for Gunman

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 21.—A murder indictment against James Dalhove, Brady gunman, will be considered by the federal grand jury of the northern Indiana district here Tuesday, if Washington authorities decide a federal court should try the midget bandit.

U. S. district Attorney James R. Fleming said he had been informed a decision on the prosecution of Dalhove, held under $50,000 bond at Indianapolis on temporary federal charges of bank robbery, would be made sometime today.

Dalhove has been indicted in Indianapolis for slaying Police Sergeant Richard Rivers and in Logansport for murdering State Policeman Paul Minneman.

Federal authorities, Fleming pointed out, could prosecute Dalhove for the Minneman slaying under a statute providing death upon conviction for murder in connection with the robbery of a national bank, or a bank affiliated with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Minneman was shot down by bandits fleeing from the scene of the Goodland (Ind.) state bank holdup May 25.

Awaits Decision

TROY, Oct. 21.—John Hiser, Jr., Piqua union leader, awaited today the decision of Common Pleas Judge Paul T. Klapp in a contempt case. Hiser is accused of violating an injunction against strikers at the Piqua Munsing wood products company plant. Testimony was heard yesterday.

"THE SILVER ROD MYSTERY"

by Lewis Allen Browne

"Miss Monteth, I dislike to say this—but bringing the maid here with that story looks phoney, to me," Harper went on.

"But Howard saw her there, just as she said she saw him."

"You corresponded with Griswold—this yarn could have been fixed up easily enough!"

"But it isn't fixed up as you claim, Sergeant," Mary declared impressively. "I tell you that the maid told me exactly what she told you."

"I have your letter, Mary. Have you mine?" Griswold asked.

"Yes."

"Let Sergeant Harper read them," he suggested.

Foxcroft came in with the Jackson girl then.

"I explained that it had been hinted by Sergeant Harper that this story might have been arranged in those two air-mail letters, and that they were willing to have them read."

"I have Mary's letter with me," Griswold informed us, and he produced it and handed it over to Harper.

"Mine is at home, suppose you come with me and see that I don't write a duplicate," Mary suggested.

"And also," said I, "examine the front and the reception halls, and see if Miss Jackson, back at the bird cage, could have seen a man at the front hall."

We drove back to South Cove and up to the Monteth house. Mary went up and brought down the letter Griswold had rushed to her, telling her he had left, and about his appointment. We read both letters. There was nothing other than expressed love, anxiety, and the news of the appointment, in them.

Foxcroft went back to the far end of the reception hall where Jackson had moved the bird cage.

Mary came down stairs and walked into the library. Griswold stepped through the front hall, turned and went out again.

"Well, it's possible, but highly improbable," Foxcroft admitted.

"Wait a minute," Sergeant Harper turned to Jackson. "You say the former maid, Briggs, left with her clothes just as you remembered the bird cage and went into the reception hall?"

"Yes, sir."

"That proves several things. It proves that this former maid saw Griswold leaving by the front door. It also fixes exactly the time that it would have taken Miss Jackson to step in and move the bird cage. By the time Griswold had stepped out, the Briggs girl would have been far enough down the drive to see him. Did you see a maid on the grounds, Griswold?"

"No. I turned to the left down the path, away from the drive to cut across to where my car was parked."

"There was a moment of silence. 'We'll be going,' said Foxcroft. 'To jail?' Mary asked, her chin up, her face pale."

"What else is there—"

"I'll come along, also."

Sergeant Harper said, "Now see here, Griswold, you stay in Kingsbury, under surveillance. You'll be watched. We can wait a while. You couldn't get far."

"My idea exactly," Griswold agreed, with evident relief.

"It's all right with me, Mary," Foxcroft's manner changed at once, and he smiled at her.

"I could guess what was in his mind. He was still stubbornly convinced that Griswold was guilty, that he would soon prove it and have him out of the way. He didn't want to quarrel with Mary."

"I suppose I may drive over here?" Griswold asked.

"Of course you may," Mary cried before either Foxcroft or Harper could reply.

We went out. Mary called Griswold back for a moment. It was I knew, for a good-night kiss.

When I stopped at my father-in-law's place Harper got out and came over to my car.

"Watch the Jackson girl," he whispered, "if she begins to blossom out in new togs, or puts money in the bank—"

"It will mean that Mary paid her. Sure, I understand. And don't think I want you to neglect watching Griswold. He might have come back later, just a few minutes later."

"That's possible, may be probable."

I went in and went to bed.

Nothing new was learned for three days. Then Mary came down to the house and notified me that her Aunt Alice, Mrs. Stapleton, was well enough to leave the hospital. That was good news. I wanted to ask her a great many questions about his early life, and other things.

We left early next morning, taking my wife along, and one of the maids.

To our surprise and gratification, Mrs. Stapleton was able to walk. The taxi accident had resulted more in shock than anything else, other than a few superficial cuts and bruises. Her grief over her brother had added to her hysteria.

She was exhausted after the trip, and Mary put her to bed at once.

I took my wife up to Mary's next forenoon. My idea was for Sally to try and talk with Mary and leave me alone to talk with Mrs. Stapleton.

To my delight, Mrs. Stapleton was comfortably stretched out in a semi-reclining chair on the sun porch. It was surprising how agile she was as she got up out of the chair to greet us. I had met her before and so had Sally.

"Mary has told me considerably, Mr. Stevenson," she said, "and about how you have been trying to clear up this terrible cloud that she insists, is hanging over her as well as Mr. Griswold, but I am sure that you can tell me much more."

I told her I would be glad to do so.

"I can't believe that Mary was really under suspicion."

"I was," Mary insisted.

"Not with Harley," Sally cried. "He knew better from the start."

I gave Sally a warning glance, to remind her to try and get Mary away.

"Mary left the party and met Griswold on these grounds. At first that put her under suspicion, but that was cleared up long ago."

"He may be saying that for my benefit," Mary smiled. "You tell her everything, Harley."

To my relief she and Sally went into the house.

"Was Mary really under suspicion?" Mrs. Stapleton asked, with great seriousness.

"For a while, naturally," I explained every detail of it.

"Gerard was so set in his ways—staid old bachelors are like that. He had his heart set on her marriage to your brother-in-law, David. He wrote me about it."

"I would like to have had her marry David," I confessed. "He is such a clean-like individual that I have no idea whether he was much in love with her. However, this Griswold strikes me as a splendid young man, and, after all, if a girl falls in love, what is to be done about it?"

"That is so. Well, I wish you would start right from the beginning. Mary was afraid it might make me worse if she talked too much about it."

I did my best. Mrs. Stapleton was an unusually intelligent woman. She followed me closely and made many pertinent observations.

I was glad that she did not question me when I told her that her brother had evidently been stabbed while asleep on the glider hammock. I wasn't ready to ask about the silver rod.

"Mrs. Stapleton was about five years older than her late brother. He was her last close relative, aside from her niece, Mary. Mary's people had died when Mary was about twelve and he had cared for her, as Mrs. Stapleton's husband was in the diplomatic service and they lived mostly abroad. She had been a widow about five years. There were no children."

"Now what about your brother's friends—and his enemies?" I asked.

"Gerard made friends easily, but not many. He was too dignified to make enemies, if you can see what I mean. If he didn't like people he never bothered with them. I cannot believe that it was an enemy. It was robbery, or attempted robbery, if that Professor Lardeau didn't do it. There is no doubt in my mind but what he took that painting."

"And what do you know about this painting?"

"Very little. Gerard said that it was a very clever copy of a Van Dyck, that it was copied long ago, in Europe, some place, and so good that he liked it, liked it well enough to keep it in his library."

"Could he have been mistaken—couldn't it have been a genuine?"

"I don't think so. Then, the fact that it was given to him by a poor, unfortunate little woman, should be sufficient proof that it wasn't of real value."

"Yes. I have been told that it was given to him. Why should a poor woman give it to him? As a copy it is worth several hundred dollars."

"I doubt if she knew. At any rate, it is quite a long story. Gerard helped her, quite gallantly, out of some trouble. This was in Zurich."

"Zurich?" I exclaimed.

"Yes."

"When was this, Mrs. Stapleton?"

"Oh, long ago, twenty—more than twenty years ago. I can look it up. It was before the World war, I know."

"On the rather unusual card of this Professor Henri Lardeau," I explained, "was printed, among other cities, Zurich."

Mrs. Stapleton showed more interest.

"I wonder what connection that might have?"

"Much or none, but it is going to help. I believe. I am sure that they will get that man and bring him back. So, the stolen painting was a reward of merit, as Mr. Monteth once told Mary. Why shouldn't he have told her how he merited it?"

"Gerard never talked about himself if he could avoid it."

"Do you know what favor it was that your brother did for the poor woman in Zurich, that caused her to give him the painting?"

"Oh yes—quite a little story."

"Was your brother—now don't be offended, but back before the World war he was much younger and, doubtless, had an eye for pretty women—was he rather sweet on this woman?"

Mrs. Stapleton laughed at this.

"Not at all, I assure you. That is, I could almost take my oath that he wasn't interested in her in the least."

"Did she give him anything else?"

"How do you mean that?"

"Now don't be offended. I mean, did she give him any other reward of merit? I have an important reason for asking."

"Yes—there were two gifts. In the bundle she sent over to him—the little copy of the Van Dyck, and a silver rod!"

Before Mrs. Stapleton completed her sentence I knew that she would mention the silver rod because she had said, "There were two gifts."

Ladies' Night Party

An interesting Ladies' Night party was held Monday evening by the Columbiana Rotary club in the American Legion hall, 44 being in attendance. Dinner was served by the American Legion auxiliary.

The hall and the tables were beautiful in Halloween appointments, having been decorated by Mesdames E. D. Roller, E. F. Miller and F. E. Griffin.

President Frank Griffin presided

Halloween Party

Helen Fisher entertained a group of school mates at a Halloween masquerade party last night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Fisher. The evening was spent with games and contests with prizes going to Helen Hicks, Grace Faber and Miriam Esterly. A tempting luncheon was served by Mrs. Fisher.

and welcomed the Rotarians and guests and announced the Fall Entertainment Festival, which begins next Monday.

The program was in charge of Evan Roller and featured a most interesting travelogue by Miss Elizabeth Starr of the High school faculty. Miss Starr told of her bicycle tour through Europe last summer, visiting France, Luxembourg, Holland, Belgium and Germany.

The balance of the evening was spent with cards. Next Monday's meeting will be held at Valley Golf club, where a short program will be given by the Hugo Brandt company preceding the concert in the High school auditorium.

Church Group Meets

The Wesleyan circle of the Methodist church met Monday evening at the church. A coverdish supper was enjoyed, with covers laid for 10. Officers elected are: Miss Helen Fuhrman, president; Miss Grace Moore, vice president; Miss Arlene Harrold, secretary; Miss Clara Holmstead, treasurer, and Miss Jane Oesch, social chairman. The program included an interesting account of "Mohammedan Youth." Mrs. Lester Harrold and Miss Bertha Shontz are in charge of the group.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Nolan and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Nolan and Miss Marguerite Bohla spent Saturday and Sunday at Niagara Falls.

The first meeting of the Columbiana Parent-Teacher association will be held tonight, when the hospitality committee will have charge of a "get-acquainted" meeting.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatism, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Accident Claims In August Total 312

Columbiana county industrial workers filed 312 claims for injuries with the state industrial commission during August, Supr. Thomas P. Kearns of the division of safety and hygiene, reported today.

There were no fatalities reported in the county but four claimed to have suffered permanent-partial disabilities.

Thirty-one lost seven or more days time while 30 others lost less than seven days. There were 247 medical cases. Total time lost by workers by reason of these accidents was 4,061 days.

In the entire state, 92 industrial fatalities were reported during the month, six more than in July. A total of 28,471 injury and occupational disease claims were filed.

Had to Tease Him

LOS ANGELES—Zoo attendants teased Rufus, 680-pound African lion, into getting well.

Rufus was critically ill from arsenic poisoning. He refused to eat. Zoo veterinarians poked iron bars at him until he angrily lashed at a chunk of beef. They substituted a diet of two raw eggs in a pint of goats milk and Rufus thrived.

Soon he'll be ready for his usual 15 pounds of raw beef daily.

QUAKERS PASS HALFWAY MARK IN GRID SEASON

WINTER CIRCUIT PUTS UP $90,000 GOLFING PRIZES

Money Parade Gets Start At Miami After the Pinehurst Play

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Riding high on the crest of the most dramatic summer tournament season in American professional golf has been the "bread-and-butter" men, who are preparing for the money parade that should boost the take for 1937 to upward of $175,000.

With Ralph Guldahl, Byron Nelson and Harry Cooper serving as engineers on the money train, the money parade will assemble at Miami for the annual Miami Biltmore $10,000 open, scheduled for Nov. 10-13.

Thereafter the way leads through California, Texas, Louisiana, Georgia, and back to Florida for the classic International Football championship in March, to be followed by the Masters' open at Augusta and the North and South perennial at Pinehurst.

Unlike last winter when the P. G. A. championship at Pinehurst provided a valiant effort on the part of golf to crash football's November party, this year finds the linksmen comparatively lying low until the Miami skirmish. On Nov. 16 Pinehurst will stage a four-day affair including a 4-ball combat and a 36-hole mid-South open, but this year will be chiefly the Eastern prize contingent.

The reigning open champion, Ralph Guldahl, is the defending champion in the Miami Biltmore open, having won the $2,500 prize despite a penalty of two shots placed on him for taking an illegal peek at a lie in the rough during the final round.

Competition during the summer campaign proved that Guldahl's strongest rivals will be Harry Cooper, who wears the Canadian open crown; Byron Nelson, victor in the rich Belmont open up at Boston, and Sam Snead, the new siege-gun sensation.

Among the other listed classics of the winter campaign which is expected to gross upward of $90,000 in prize money, according to Fred Green of the Professional Golfers' association, are the $8,000 Los Angeles open, Jan. 7-10; the $3,000 Pasadena open, Jan. 21-23; the $3,000 Oakland open, Jan. 28-30; the $3,000 Sacramento open, Feb. 4-6; the San Francisco match-play open, Feb. 11-13; and the $3,000 "hole-in-one" offered by the City of San Francisco, Feb. 19-20. Corcoran adds that rearrangement of these dates may be necessitated to accommodate other events yet to be included in the circuit.

Returning from the Pacific coast the cash-diggers will stop over for a short shooting in Houston, New Orleans, Savannah, Ga., and Hollywood, St. Petersburg, Jacksonville, and Bel-Air, Fla.

Corcoran reports brisk recruiting are going on for the winter campaign, and action this year will be well-paced. A tournament worth $3,000 or more is on the books for every weekend from the Dec. 10 midway to mid-April.

MICHIGAN, IOWA SEEK LOOP WIN

One of Two Will Break Into Victory Column Saturday

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Michigan and Iowa can hardly wait for their football engagement Saturday—for it looks like a well-spent effort to break into the Big Ten victory column.

The Hawkeyes may be even more eager than the Wolverines, for what the rest of their schedule, they probably won't have so good a chance of winning a conference victory again this season. After the Michigan game, Iowa must meet Purdue, Minnesota and Indiana, all regarded as too powerful for Iowa's first Hawkeye team.

Michigan also faces a tough lineup, although the rest of its schedule has its advantages over Iowa's. The Wolverines, both of which figure over Michigan, but they still get a crack at Chicago's brave little band.

The Wolverines lined up for the game Saturday with what Coach Harry Kipke called the best practice of the season. The Hawkeyes' embarrasment when they were beaten by Michigan plays, and they broke away for gains.

New Indian Chief

Oscar Vitt

New manager of the Cleveland Indians baseball team is Oscar Vitt, who piloted the Newark N. J. Bears to the championship of the International league and victory in the "little world series" this season. Vitt succeeds Steve O'Neill who will serve as scout for the Indians next season. Born in 1890 in San Francisco, he broke into professional ball in 1909 and first won fame with the Detroit Tigers back in 1912.

LATE RALLIES GIVE THRILLS

Fiction-Like Climaxes Furnish Action To Football Games

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Their gridiron plots probably were not arranged that way, but many college football teams have been furnishing fiction-like climaxes to their games this fall.

Championship hopes in almost every conference have been dashed by late scoring drives.

The forward pass, perhaps even more than in other years, has been largely responsible. The extra point, field goal, touchdown and even the two-point safety have had their part in late rallies.

Georgia Tech had Duke whipped last week, but the Blue Devils took advantage of a fumble in the closing minutes to drive across the touchdown that gave them a one-point margin.

A late pass, bringing a 6-0 victory over Georgetown, kept Lafayette among the unbeaten eleven.

Washington turned loose a long aerial in the fourth period to the Washington State, and the Texas Aggies did likewise to deadlock Texas Christian university. Maryland rooted a field goal to edge out Virginia.

It was a long toss, with the minutes clicking away, that brought Southern California's victory over Ohio State.

Oregon State bumped off Washington, last year's Pacific Coast leaders, with a touchdown pass in the last three minutes. And Oregon State became the victim when Idaho connected with a touchdown pass with two minutes to go.

The Texas Miners beat Texas Teachers with a field goal in the final 60 seconds. Less than a minute remained when Penn State garnered its winning pointers over Bucknell.

The Texas Aggies, now expert at the business, came from behind to score twice in the last quarter to whip Manhattan. New York university outpointed Carnegie Tech with a rousing rally equal to anything Hollywood ever put on the screen.

Arkansas university's "passing team" saw Baylor toss an over-the-goal pass that whipped the Razorbacks in the last 30 seconds.

Nebraska sprang the season's first major upset by capitalizing on a fourth period break to beat Minnesota.

Wrestling Results

NEW YORK—Dean Detton, 207, Salt Lake City, and Vincent Lopez, 220, Los Angeles, drew, 1 hour, 16 minutes.

DENVER—Ernie Dusek, 228, Omaha, defeated Arjan Singh, 225, of India; 36 minutes.

LOS ANGELES—Gino Garibaldi, 215, Brooklyn, won in straight falls from Jules Strongbow, 265, Oklahoma.

was used at right guard. Repair work was the order of the day at Minnesota. Illinois, Purdue and Chicago which have no engagements this week. Bernie Bierman continued to experiment with Minnesota's backfield. Clark Shaughnessy did the same at Chicago, while Mal Elward sought to strengthen Purdue's line reserves. At Illinois, Bob Zupke proceeded with his plans for adding variety and power to his offense.

GEHRIG LEADS MAJOR LEAGUE IN NEW MARKS

"Iron Horse" Champion Record Buster of '37 Baseball Season

BY SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Lou Gehrig's announced campaign to eclipse some of the marks Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb set up for the record books didn't get far during the 1937 season, but it was a big year for the "Iron Horse," nevertheless.

The Yankees' iron man first baseman revealed his ambition after the 1936 campaign. Through the recent season he succeeded only in wiping out two of the Bambino's all-time highs, and tying another. But he was still the year's leading record-buster, accounting for six of the ten big league marks that were bettered, and one of the ten that were equaled.

All told, three of Ruth's records went by the boards. Gehrig passed the Babe's mark for the player driving in 150 or more runs for the most years, turning the trick for the seventh time in his career, and for the batter hitting for a total of 300 or more bases for the years, collecting that total for the 12th time to end a tie with the Babe.

The other Ruthian swat standard to go was shattered by the Tigers' rookie wallop, roundhouse Rudy York, when he clouted 18 homers during August, one more than the previous one-month top which Ruth set up during the September of his record-smashing season back in 1927.

By scoring 100 or more runs for the 12th year in his career, Gehrig deeded Ruth at the head of the record books. In addition, Larruping Lou stretched his consecutive-game playing record to 1965 games; played 150 or more games for the 11th year in his career for another new mark; set a new high of 20 homers with the bases loaded during his playing career; topped his own mark by scoring 100 or more runs for the 12th straight year, and broke a tie with Al Simmons for a new mark of 12 years in a row for driving in 100 or more tallies.

The most unusual mark of all for the books this season was that the Pittsburgh Pirates produced in whipping the Cincinnati Reds 21 times in 22 starts during the season, tying the all-time high for the most victories scored by one club over another in one year.

Paul Waner of the Pirates, set a National league record with 200 or more hits for the eighth year.

Excluding the marks posted during the world series, here are the changes to be made in the books:

Major league marks broken:

Most consecutive games played during career, 1965, by Lou Gehrig.

Most years playing 150 or more games, 11, by Gehrig.

Most consecutive years 100 or more runs scored, 12, by Gehrig.

Most years 150 or more runs batted in, 7, by Gehrig.

Most consecutive years, 100 or more runs batted in, 12, by Gehrig.

Most years, 300 or more total bases, 12, by Gehrig.

Most home runs with bases loaded during career, 20, by Gehrig.

Most home runs, one month, 18, by Rudy York, Detroit.

Most years as manager, 40, by Connie Mack, Athletics.

Largest attendance, single game, 68,939, White Sox at Yankees, June 20.

Major league records tied:

Most years 100 or more runs scored, 12, by Gehrig.

Most runs batted in, one inning, 6, by Bob Johnson, Athletics.

Most two-base hits, one game, 4, by Mike Kreevich, White Sox.

Most triples, one game, 3, by Joe Kuehl, Washington Senators.

Fewest chances offered first baseman, one game, 0, by Rip Collins, Cubs.

Most putouts by second baseman, one game, 11, by Roy Hughes, Indians.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—That Tony Lazzeri-Chicago Cub situation has everyone around here puzzled. What will come off. Are you asking us? Well, we're asking you. Just suppose Tony signs up as coach (on condition he'll manage the club in 1939). That would be a fine mess of fish, wouldn't it?

There would be Grimm directing the Bruins from the bench, with the next year's manager whooping it up on one of the coaching lines. Can either of 'em stand it? Tony's pals around B'Way and 45th don't believe he'll go for such a bargain—if that's what's in the Chicago minds.

Boston fans who are busy signing petitions for Rabbit Maranville to manage the Bees are wasting their time. He's already signed to stay at Montreal. And 40,000 Clevelanders, who were pulling for Steve O'Neill via the same route, had no better luck. Fordham is all set for an air attack when Texas Christian blows into the Polo Grounds Saturday. Gene Tunney, who made some pithy comments on the John Monaghan case, was socked plumb in the solar plexus by Judge Brewster, who referred to Gene as "a former heavyweight champion and alleged Shakespearean scholar." Omigod!

Well, who's going to the Rose Bowl? Right now we'd say Alabama and California. Mike Jacobs won't wear a suit costing less than $150, but he sticks to 15-cent cigarettes. Bill McKenchie is looking for a couple of Grade-A coaches out in Zinzinnati. Applicants for Travis Jackson's Jersey City job may as well save their stamps. "Ole Hoss" will be back on the job. Big league club owners are ready to take their managers' tips and vote for a 25-man player limit at the winter meetings. Present limit is 23 and are the pilots howling?

Snatched from New York columns: Mirror: Yale team snappiest in years. Blur actually has more than seven plays. End named Miller may make 'em forget all about Larry Kelley. Sun: More than passing strange that in a game called football there should be so little foot. Survey shows only 54 per cent efficiency in conversions in 42 games. Journal-American: Babe Ruth definitely is a candidate for manager of the Boston Bees (and more power to him). News: Pie Traynor in town doing the spots, negotiating for a power hitter, but Hank Leiber is out. Post: Bob Pastor can pocket $15,000 if he wants to fight Maxie Rosenbloom in Los Angeles Thanksgiving day.

Selby At Hearing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—State department officials said today that Robert A. Selby of the Selby Shoe company, Portsmouth, would be one of a group of manufacturers appearing next week at hearings to determine products to be included in a proposed reciprocal trade agreement with Czechoslovakia.

Indians Seek Four Players To Help New Tribe Manager

Cleveland After Outfielder, Second Sacker, Catcher, and Southpaw Pitcher

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21.—C. C. Slapnicka, vice president of the Indians disclosed today he is seeking four new players to aid the Tribe's new manager Oscar Vitt, in next season's pennant race.

Slapnicka said he is looking for an outfielder who hits from the right side of the plate, a second baseman, an experienced catcher and a southpaw pitcher.

Officials of the club have several players in mind, but the final decision will be left to Vitt, Slapnicka said, adding the Tribe is prepared to part with established stars if such trades will strengthen the club.

"When the major league owners and managers meet in December Mr. Vitt will have a good idea just what he needs to strengthen the club," Slapnicka said, "and he will make the final decision in any prospective trades."

Vitt announced from his home in Oakland, Cal., that he was so anxious to take over his new job that he wished the season were starting tomorrow.

"All I have to do is to beat the New York Yankees, to be successful," he said.

"That's funny, isn't it, after I worked for the Yankees the past three years?"

He said the terms of the contract which were not disclosed "are satisfactory."

Vitt, born and reared in San Francisco, broke into the American league as a third baseman with the Detroit Tigers in 1912, playing beside the fiery Donie Bush and on the same team with the immortal Tyus Raymond Cobb.

He launched his managerial career in 1925 when he piloted Salt Lake City into second place in the Pacific Coast league.

He comes to Cleveland from Newark where he piloted that club in the International league.

O'Neill, the deposed manager who was asked by the club to remain as a scout, said he had obtained permission to negotiate for another job.

Salem To Play Fifth Game Against Wellsville Squad At Reilly Stadium Friday

Quakers Seek Second Victory and First Columbiana County Win; More Than 6,000 Fans Are Expected To Watch Contest

BULLETIN

WELLSVILLE, Oct. 21.—Hopes for a Wellsville football victory over Salem High school's Quakers were encouraged today by the information that Bud Zahndt and Clyde Hurd, first team linemen, who were injured in a game last week, would be able to play against the Quakers.

Coach Bill Storer said that he would not start either of the players, but that both would see action. Zahndt is the right end and Hurd the center. A special protector has been ordered for Zahndt, who suffered two broken ribs while playing against Toronto.

Passing the halfway mark in their 1937 football campaign, Coach Carl Schroeder's Salem High school Quakers take on Bill Storer's Wellsville High Bengals in their fifth game of the season out at Reilly stadium tomorrow night.

Given a fair break by the weatherman, the Quakers 27th meeting with their old county rival is expected to attract a crowd of more than 6,000 persons. Faculty Manager Frederick E. Cope learned today that about 1,000 Wellsville fans will accompany the Bengals here.

Tickets for the game, which will start at 8 o'clock, are on sale at the J. H. Lease and N. L. Reich stores. Officials will be H. C. Wagner of Warren, O. S. Ellis of Youngstown and Andrew Lindsay of Struthers.

With only one win in four games to their credit, the Quakers will be after their second season's victory after their first Columbiana county win in tomorrow night's contest.

Schroeder's charges defeated Sebring, 13-0, in the season's opener for their lone win to date. Since then, they have tied Ravenna, 14-14, and lost to East Liverpool, 19-13, and Struthers, 20-13.

As will be noted from the scores, the Quakers have been held to two touchdowns in every game. The points from the two touchdowns were good enough for a win on one occasion, but in three other games the two tallies were not enough to bring a victory.

Four games will remain on the Red and Black's schedule after the Wellsville fray. They are: Lisbon, Friday, Oct. 29; Dover, Saturday, Nov. 6; Sharon, Pa., Saturday, Nov. 13, and Alliance, Thursday, Nov. 25.

Wellsville has played five games so far this season, winning two and losing three. The Bengals hold victories over Youngstown Scienceville, 19-0, and East Palestine, 39-0. They have lost to Ellwood City, Pa., 32-14; Alliance, 13-0, and Toronto, 19-7.

Although inconsistent in their performance to date, the Bengals have been held scoreless by only one team, Alliance. Their showing against Sciencville and East Palestine was exceptionally good, but against Ellwood City, Alliance and

The Quakers will be strengthened for the contest by the return of Bob Kirchgesner and Bob Minamyer, first string linemen, who were kept out of last week's game because of injuries.

One change will be made in the backfield. Bud Zahndt, veteran right end, and Clyde Hurd, center, are the two first stringers who will be out of the lineup because of injuries.

The Wellsville line will be considerably lighter than the Quakers', but a tricky offense is expected to make up for the difference in weight. Passing is the main threat of the Bengals' attack.

FREEDOM GOLDEN GASOLINE

Two new high scores for the Masonic Ladies' Bowling league were set at the Masonic temple alleys last night as Mrs. Margaret Detmore rolled a 209 single game and a 520 series to lead Mullins to two out of three wins over the Elks No. 2.

Despite the defeat, Elks No. 2 remained in a tie for first place with the American Automobile association quintet, which dropped two out of three games to the Ohio Edison.

The Salem News won two out of three from Elks No. 1 and Kresge's took two out of three from the Electric Furnace in other matches.

Mullins Die Room continued to hold the lead in the Pastime league last night, although losing two of three games with the Citizens Ice & Coal team at the Grate alleys.

25 Bands, Two Bugle Corps, Etc., Feature of Tulsa-Oklahoma Aggie Football Game

(By Associated Press)

TULSA, Okla. — From college football publicity: "Football tradition, mixed with 25 blaring bands of 1,500 members and two bugle corps, royalty and homecoming will be the full menu offered for the University of Tulsa-Oklahoma A. & M. gridiron classic. What, no Mickey Mouse?"

Milwaukee — They've had to make an exception to the rule that sophomore reserves of Marquette's football squad must travel in upper berths during the team's rail jumps. One second-year back is enjoying a "lower" because the coaches found out he's a sleeper. And those second-story cots aren't just the thing for somnambulists.

Rochester, N. Y. — Those University of Rochester gridgers are the year's No. 1 exponents of the "they shall not pass" theory. In three games, not one overhand has been completed against Rochester.

Minneapolis — Coach Bernie Bierman is wishing his little make-up of the forward wall, this moving Richard Beck, 180-pound sophomore, into left tackle in place of Harold Fitzsimmons, who has started at this position in all of the Quakers' past games. Beck has been showing up exceptionally well in scrimmage sessions this week.

Bud Dean will return to the quarterback post after remaining out of the Struthers game because of an injury. Bill Malloy is slated to start at the right halfback berth with Ollie Olexa at left halfback and Max Lutsch at fullback.

Stuart Wise, who replaced Dean last week is scheduled to get back into action tomorrow night as a substitute. Wise looked good on end sweeps last Friday and will probably be used on these plays against Wellsview.

AN EXTRA NICE LOCATION, 10 1/2 ACRES

This property is located on the Salem-Damascus Road, which gives you both bus service and street car service. It is improved with a good 9-room house under slate. Has electricity, gas, also bathroom fixtures, but not connected. Bank barn in good condition. All outside necessary buildings. First-class young orchard coming into bearing, about 12 years old. Abundance of fine grapes. This property is very suitable for a roadside market where you could sell everything you grow. It would work out fine for a man who wanted to work in Salem, and still have his family in the country where they could raise their own living, have some chickens and keep a cow. It isn't priced any higher than a city home. If sold at once, we can sell this property for $4,500.

Automobile History in the Making!

Ford Motor Co., Expands

Furthering a policy of making its own car parts, the Ford Motor Co. announced this week a $40,000,000 expansion program during 1937-38 at the River Rouge plant in Dearborn. The program, nearly doubling in cost the company's 1934-35 expansion, comes within two years of the largest undertaking by private industry while the country is emerging from the depression.

Contained in the huge expansion plans is the first all-welded 1,000-ton blast furnace in the world, which will cost around $4,500,000 and use of 45,000 tons of steel for new buildings.

The 1934-35 program comprised construction of a hot-strip and cold-finishing steel mills, expansion of the 30-acre foundry, making of cast alloy-steel parts, installation of complete new equipment in the glass plant, and installation through the plant of additional new tools and equipment to enable production of 6,000 cars in 16 hours of 24 hours.

Included in the 1937-38 expansion program, which has to do chiefly with steel operations, are:

- A new 1,000-ton blast furnace and auxiliaries, including a new battery of 61 coke ovens, now under construction, plus additional coke storage and handling equipment.
- A new cast alloy-steel building which will increase the floor area of the foundry, now the largest in the world, to 38 acres.
- The new building will house equipment for casting alloy-steel parts, the use of which in motor cars was pioneered by Ford four years ago.
- In connection with this development the present electric-furnace building will be converted to supply molten steel alloys for use in the casting processes in the new foundry addition.

Reconstruction of the present open-hearth steel furnace facilities and reorganization of manufacturing methods. Nine 100-ton furnaces will be rebuilt. The reconstruction program is to be carried out under a progressive schedule which will permit operation of a major of the furnaces at all times. In addition to the open-hearth building, the new equipment will be used in preliminary processing operations in the open-hearth mill, and will enable these operations to be speeded up substantially in complete installation of new equipment in the new steel rolling and finishing mills, completed two years ago. The hot-strip mill will be equipped to roll a 60-inch sheet, instead of a 48-inch sheet as at present. Two new slab-reheating furnaces and a new finishing stand also will be added.

Installation of additional equipment in the new cold finishing mill, including a 78-inch continuous pickler and 12 sets of three belt-type bright anneal electric furnaces. Contracts for this work have been let.

When the blast furnace is completed, the requirements will rise to 1,500,000 tons annually, instead of 850,000 tons as at present. Requirements of the furnace will be taken care of by a battery of 61 coke ovens now under construction. Two giant gas storage holders, now under construction, will house fuel gas produced by the coke ovens. One of the holders, with a capacity of 10,000,000 cubic feet, will be the largest all-welded steel structure in the world.

Capacity of the main power house at the plant will be increased again by installation of a third 110,000-kilowatt turbo-generator.
